

They Think I Am Their Pet

I am a cat. This house is all for me. A kid inks a pic of me.

I lick and lick, and I am not a mess. That dog stinks! The kid dunks that dog in the tub.

I wink, and I
nap on a soft lap. The kids pat me
and hug me.

The kids grab
their bags
and go. I think the house is all for me!

A pest! He thinks he is fast. He is wrong. I am fast
as well.

I spring up
and grip the wall. I spot a bug on the trunk, and I
hunt that bug.

I bring in a pest in a shell. Mom thinks it stinks. She is wrong!

A bad kid
grins a bad
grin at me.
He stinks! I
hiss at that punk!

I think and think. I could get as big as this, with big fangs and all!

Cats look in at
me. They think it is best to not be in a house. They are wrong. I am
snug on the bed,
and I am glad.

They Think I Am Their Pet

Everyone in this house thinks the cat is their pet. Really, it's the other way around: the cat naps on laps, sneaks in muddy visitors, and rules the yard like it owns the place. But a cheeky mouse and a mean kid next door might not agree so fast, so who is really in charge here? Created to align with the UFLI Foundations scope and sequence (Lesson 52: nk /ŋk/), this book practices words like 'think', 'stinks', 'trunk', 'wink', 'punk'.

Phonics Focus: nk /ŋk/

dunks, inks, punk, stinks, think, thinks, trunk, wink
