Minecraft Ecology

This land is the plains. It is wide and flat, and full of grass.

Chicken pecks
by a tall plant.

The plains are home to a lot of mobs. A pig digs in the dust.
Cow rests in the shade.

A lot of mobs graze on the grass. They munch and munch. This land has a lot of grub!

These big mobs
munch on a bale by the pen. The land is flat, so it is a fine spot
for a home.

A kid casts a line at the lake. He hopes to get a fish.
Cod hide in the lake.

Cow grazes in the sunshine.

These mobs are tame and safe.

They will not bite.

A lot of tall plants are on this land. They shine in the sun.
Chicken likes to
gaze at them.

But if a lot of mobs graze in a spot, the grass fades. Then the land is dust.
That is bad!

Big mobs stamp
on the same spot and rip up the grass. Small mobs step soft.
Chicken does not rip up the land.

A man takes grass to the mobs in the pen.
He has a plan to save the land.
The grass and the mobs can thrive!

Hop on the Mane!

A kid can't wait to explore the wide, sunny plains, where cows, chickens, and horses graze in the open grass. Created to align with the UFLI Foundations scope and sequence (Lesson 57: VCe Review 1, e_e /ē/), this book practices words like 'graze', 'shade', 'same', and 'thrive'.
