

Is This the Bad Bit?

Gran has a plan.

'Eve,' she says,

'we can make a
coconut snack!'

Eve jumps up and waves.

Eve jumps by the plants and yells, 'Get big, plants!' Gran smiles a big smile.

Gran sits on the lift by the big tree.

Eve spins the winch, and Gran
rides up, up, up.

Gran is up in the tree. The coconuts slide
on the plank
and drop in a
big pile.

Gran cuts the husk with the blade.

Eve tugs and
tugs at a husk,
but it is so thick!

Eve wants to sit in the shade for a bit.
'Eve!' calls Gran.
'We still have a
big job to do!'

Gran lifts the blade. Crack!
The splash lands
in the dish, and Eve gets it all.
'Got it!' yells Eve.

Eve grips the red
crank to scrape
the flesh from the shell. It is a big job!

'Huff!' Eve pants.
Gran smiles at Eve.

Gran tips the coconut in a big dish on the stove. Eve takes a big sniff. What a fine smell!

Gran fills the tin
and pats the mix
flat.

'Time to bake it!'
says Gran. Eve
sits and gazes at
the tin.

The bake is crisp! Gran and Eve pack it in, bit by bit, and press on the lids. 'That is it!' says Gran with a grin.

Eve takes a bit and bites it. Crunch! 'This is the best snack of my life!' says Eve.

Gran takes a bit as well, and they munch
and munch.

Is This the Bad Bit?

Gran has a big plan: make coconut bars from scratch, starting with the trees in the yard! Eve rides a homemade lift, cranks a winch, and helps crack open a coconut without spilling a drop. But scraping out the flesh is the toughest job yet, and Eve keeps asking the same question. Will this ever be done? Created to align with the UFLI Foundations scope and sequence (Lesson 57: VCe Review 1, e_e /ē/), this book practices words like 'smile', 'blade', 'shade', 'pile', and 'time'.
